TOO FEW NEGROES FOUND IN MEDICINE

Times

Report of Harlem Hospital Inquiry Urges Improved Opportunities for Race.

12-28-33

STAFF POSTS ADVOCATED

New York, Jan.

Institution Cleared of Charges of Racial Prejudice and Political Influence.

Improved opportunities for Negro medical education throughout the United States are urged in the report of the Harlem Hospital investigating committee, made public yesterday by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. The report clears Harlem Hospital of political influence charges and says that the Negro race receives "full recognition" in medical appointments at the hospital.

The committee, composed of physicians and laymen, and headed by Dr. Walter Lindsay Niles, Professor of Clinical Medicine at Cornell University Medical College, was assembled at the invitation of the association. The study was financed by a grant from the Carnegie Corporation of New York and by Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow. Although predominantly white, the committee contains some Negro members.

Committee's Work Broadened.

Following charges by Negro organizations of racial discrimination at Harlem Hospital and charges by patients and medical groups that politics had played a large part in the hospital's management, the committee began its work early this year. Its original purpose was to examine conditions at the hospital only, but its activities were broadened to include investigation of opportunities for medical education of Negroes.

The report, an 80,000-word document, begins with a detailed analysis of the Negro medical situation in the United States, asserting that Negro physicians are ineligible to membership in the American Medical Association in one-third of the States and that the Negro National Medical Association has not enrolled all of them. It places the number of Negro physicians of the country at 4,000.

The report holds that health conditions among the country's Negroes are "generally unsatisfactory," and stresses the "existing need for an increase in the number of well-qualified Negro physicians" as well as improved opportunities for post-graduate training. It calls upon American universities to "widen the existing opportunity for ambitious and well-qualified Negro students to enter medical schools."

Hospital authorities generally, "and those in charge of tax-maintained hospitals in particular," are called upon to accept well-qualified Negro graduates for interne service. The committee also recommends to the medical profession generally "and the medical boards of our municipal hospitals in particular" the appointment of qualified Negro physicians and surgeons to their staffs. The report places emphasis on the importance of training Negro physicians and nurses in public health work and affording employment for them in Federal, State and local health organizations.

Negro Hospitals Classified.

The report points out that of the 120 Negro hospitals in the country only sixteen are Grade A. Forty-three are listed as Grade B, thirty Grade C, twenty-seven Grade D and four are ungraded. Twenty-five are under white and ninety-five under Negro control. Many are not run efficiently, says the report, because of scarcity of trained Negro executives and nurses.

It is explained that there are only one-fourth as many Negro physicians as there should be in the country, and only two medical schools for Negro students, Howard and Meharry, both of which "fall behind other Grade A schools in equipment and personnel." These two schools graduate 100 students annually, and twenty Negroes are graduated annually from "white" schools.

The report says that only fourteen Negro hospitals are classified by the American Medical Association as numerically adequate for training internes and only seventeen are approved by the American College of Surgeons. Because of the limited opportunity for interne training, says the report, "the total number of internships is less than the total number of graduates every year."

"Since there are but very few hospitals which admit a Negro graduate in medicine to an internship," the report adds, Harlem Hospital "looms so large on the Negro medical horizon" and "all that pertains to Harlem Hospital assumes a national importance."

Surprise is expressed that in April, 1933, only four Negroes applied for interneships there. The committee finds no definite reason for the failure of a larger number to apply, adding that an explanation in part seems to lie in the fact that "none of the internes or residents are on salary."

The report attributes the strife and contention around the hospital to economic rivalry between physicians in a poor community and to "differences in social philosophy concerning the advancement of the Negro race."

The hospital's general standards of service and its administrative and other procedures are found, "although falling short of the ideal, on a par with those of other hospitals in the city which are likewise situated as to means and personnel." The hospital has been utilized in the last two years to far above official bed capacity, says the report, which praises the nursing school and practices.

GEORGIA NEGRO DOCTORS MEET

STATE CONVENTIONS OF PHYSICIANS AND AUXILIARY OPEN

Negro physicians, dentists and pharmacists of Georgia, making up the Georgia State Medical Association, began arriving in Savannah yesterday by motor and railroad to attend the 40th annual state convention of the association, which begins today. Registration commenced at Charity Hospital this morning at 11 o'clock and the preliminary business session was called for 12 o'clock at the same place. The clinics will be organized at today's session, committees will be appointed and memorials will be said. All this, so that the way will be cleared for intensive scientific discussions, clinics and operations during the remaining days of the meeting. Dr. M. B. Hutto, Bainbridge, is president.

Tonight at St. Phillips Church, West Broad street, the welcome program will be given and the feature address will be delivered by Mayor Gamble. Dr. E. J. Smith, a former president of the society, will preside. Music will be given by the Boys' Choral Club.

Tomorrow the clinical work at Charity Hospital will begin early, at 7 o'clock, and Dr. I. D. Williams, who has been arranging for this profitable feature of the session, announces that there is plenty of clinical material in hand for an extensive surgical clinic. Leading white physicians and surgeons and members of the Charity Hospital staff will participate in the operations. Dr. W. A. Harris is superintendent of Charity Hospital and has everything in readiness for the comfort and convenience of the visiting physicians. The medical clinics will take place at 11 o'clock tomorrow, with Dr. J. Reid Broderick of Savannah in charge. The obstetrical clinic will be had at noon tomorrow and Dr. E. Carson Demmond will appear. At 2 o'clock the genito-urinary clinic will begin, with Dr. M. J. Epting leading.

Between 3 and 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, Dr. T. J. Charlton, superintendent of Georgia Infirmary, which has ministered to the colored people of Chatham county for over a hundred years, will lead. In all these clinics, visiting physicians will have a leading part and most of the operations will be performed by members of the state organization from various cities of the state.

It is regarded as especially fortunate for the state body that so many specialists and experts of the white organization will attend and participate in the professional proceedings and operations. Dr. V. H. Bassett, health officer of Chatham county, will present the health program of Chatham county which has placed this county and Savannah among the leading cities in matters of health, mosquito control, drainage and sanitation, milk supply control and other common health interests.

The woman's auxiliary of the state association will be holding its session at St. John Baptist Church Rev. E. O. S. Cleveland, pastor, during today and tomorrow. Extensive preparations for the social entertainment of the visitors, including sightseeing tours, a boat excursion, dinners and dances have been provided.

NEGRO DOCTORS CONTINUE MEET

AND ATTEND CLINICS

Doctors' and Dentists' Convention In Progress

The negro medical and dental association in annual session here worked hard all day yesterday with nearly a hundred charity patients who took advantage of the offer for free service by the local and visiting surgeons in both the sections of the profession.

In the surgical section, supervised by Dr. I. D. Williams, more than a score of operations were performed, several of them of a more or less serious nature, and in the dental division the operators were none the less busy at treating diseased teeth, mouths, and gums. At last accounts from the nurses last night all patients were doing well.

Participating in the surgery work were Drs. C. W. Powell, Atlanta; S. S. Johnson, Augusta; H. VanBuren, Statesboro; J. H. Griffin, Bainbridge; J. B. Bryant, Rome; C. W. Reeves, Atlanta; and Nathaniel Lamar, Atlanta. Those leading in the dental operations were Drs. J. W. Jamerson, supervisor of the section, N. H. Collier, J. W. Wilson of the local dentists; and Drs. M. A Cassels of Brunswicq, M. B. Hutto, Bainbridge; R. L. Lockett, Augusta, and Carter of Augusta, R. M. Reddick, Atlanta, and M. L. Walton of Thomasville.

The visiting physicians and dentists were taken yesterday afternoon to the Georgia Infirmary, upon invitation of Dr. T. J. Charlton, superintendent, where they witnessed a heart clinic and a demonstration of the device known as a cardiogram

Medical clinics in obstetrics were given by Dr. J. Reid Broderick and Dr. E. Carson Demmond of Savannah. Dr. M. J. Epting contributed a most valuable clinic in genito-urinary work. These were all done at the new Charity Hospital which is so well-equipped for the work.

Dr. R. N. Jackson, Brunswick, contributed a very instructive thesis on intestinal obstructions. Dr. I. D. Williams, local surgeon and assistant superintendent of Charity Hospital, read a fine paper on spinal anaesthesia, giving several demonstrations to illustrate his treatise. Dr. J. H. Griffin, of Bainbridge, gave an interesting paper on cardio-vascular syphilis. Dr. J. B. Bryant, Rome, president of the North Georgia Medical Association, read a paper on the "New Methods with Old Drugs in Bladder Irrigation." One of the most interesting papers featuring the afternoon session was given by Dr. E. G. Bowden of Atlanta. His subject was "Some Pitfalls of the Professional Man."

From the state Tuberculosis Sanitarium at Alto, Dr. M. A. Thomas, only negro physician officially connected with the State Board of Health of Georgia, is in attendance upon the association meeting. At the afternoon session Dr. Thomas lectured on "The Childhood Type of Pulmonary Tuberculosis," and showed stereopticon views of typical cases which had come under his observation at Alto. He outlined the practical method of treating these cases as follows: (1) Breaking the contact; (2) Bed rest for the acute cases; (3) Routine program of living for those in the calsified stages; with tuberculin treatment. He stated further that children under treatment at Alto attend school for two hours daily and are exposed to actual sunlight in summer and to mercury quartz in winter is dosed out to them with the expectancy of decreasing allergy and for facilitating metabolism. A diet consisting of variety and adequacy with high grade milk as a base is given. It is not an uncommon thing, stated Dr. Thomas, to see these little patients take on twenty to thirty pounds in the first few months of the sanatorium life. Dr. Thomas was high in his praise of the Department of Health of Georgia for the zealous efforts which it is making to stamp out tuberculosis among the negro people of the state, and he stated that the disease is gradually being reduced and the death rate from it is being gradually lowered.

Clinical work will be continued tomorrow morning at Charity Hospital and the business session will be held in the afternoon tomorrow, and the annual elections of officers will then be held.

The Women's Auxiliary held an interesting session at St. John Baptist Church yesterday afternoon, featuring a health program. The principal address was delivered by Mrs. Modjeska Simkins, state supervisor of colored tuberculosis work, on the subject "How South Carolina is Fighting Tuberculosis."

A public health program was held by the association at St. Phillips A. M. E. Church last night, presidsd over by President M. B. Hutto of the general body. The feature numbers on the program included addresses by Dr. William Harris on "Your Family Doctor"; Nurse Ida Lee, on "What Nurses May Do to Promote the Public Health"; by Dr. W. E. Moody on "How to Conduct a Successful Drugstore"; by Dr. C. N. Perry, pastor Second Baptist Church, on "What the Church Can Do in the Health Program"; by Dr. R. M. Reddick, Atlanta, on "Food and Dental Health"; together with the president's annual address by Dr. Hutto. Music was by the First Bryan Baptist Church and by the choir of St. Phillips A. M. E. Church. Dr. J. L. Butler is pastor of the church.

Tomorrow afternoon the visiting members of the association and their wives will be entertained with a boat ride down the Savannah harbor and to Daufuskie Island where there will be other diversions for the visitors.

FIFTY CENTS FEE CHARGED BY PHYSICIAN

East Tennessee News
1-26-33

CHICAGO, Ill.— Startling reduction in fees for medical services broadcast throughout the city by a group of doctors brought forth the condemnation of the Cook County Medical Society Friday and a committee from that organization set about to stop the so-called "health foundation," from further operating.

Knoxville, Tenn.

While the medical society members are registering opposition to the fee reductions, one of which charges only 50 cents for home visits, day or night, many citizens express a willingness to suport the doctors who have made the reductions and announce that they will stick to them to the last. Reference is made that the price slashing for medical services is a humanitarian act in view of the little money in circulation.

Members of the Cook County Medical Society declared that the activities of Dr. Isaac Holloway, well known physician with offices at 4304 South Parkway, savored of commercializing the practice of medicine and recommended that the doctor be cited to the ethical practice committee of the organization, and ordered to show cause why he should not be expelled for advertising blatantly. The "Southside Medical Service," which he maintains with hand bills and circulars offering examinations, diagnosis and medicine for the sum of fifty cents has been the source of the condemnation of the society members.

Dr. Holloway's announcement declared that his new prices and methods were designed to meet the exigencies of depression. He declared the people were unable and unwilling to meet the high costs imposd by the regular standard of fees charged by doctors and offered the services of himself and Dr. Eugene Butler, who now shares his office, "at a live and let live price,"—50 cents per call, day or night.

Dr. Homer V. Wilburn, 4310 S. Parkway, president of the Cook County Medical Society, denounced the offer as unethical and dishonest.

"It is impossible for these men to render the services they propose to give for fifty cents," said Dr. Wilburn. "Hospitals operated on a philanthropic basis or clinics supported by endowments, have the equipment to furnish treatment for a small sum as many of them are doing, but the private physician has neither the facilities, nor is it economically possible for him to give efficient and honest service for such a fee. In addition we are opposed to advertising of this sort.

In replying to Dr. Wilburn's criticism, Dr. Holloway stated:

"I am not a member of the Cook County Medical Association, have no connection with it and that organization has no jurisdiction over me.

"The South Side Medical Service is an ethical organization, organized by a number of physicians, and I was elected medical director of the service. We are acting in interest of the people of the community. They are no longer able to pay the fees charged by the regular medical practitioners. Our organization is on the same basis as that of the United Medical Service, white, which has won the ire of the Chicago Medical Service, also white. We expect to stay with the people and serve them during these times of depression."

NEGROES SEEK BOARD VACANCY

Appointment of Dr. Lattimore On Education Body Recommended.

Negro organizations in the city, in a letter to Edward Gottschalk, president of the Board of Education, have recommended the appointment of Dr. J. A. C. Lattimore, Negro physician, to fill the vacancy on the board caused by the resignation of Dr. Albert B. Weaver.

The letter was signed by Charles W. Anderson, Jr., attorney, representing the Citizens' Educational League; Mrs. Essie Dortch Mack president Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers; Mrs. Bennie Duncan, president, Woman's Progressive League, and Mrs. Isabell Overstreet, president, Louisville Federation of Colored Women's Clubs.

"We sincerely believe that the interest and welfare of Negro education can best be served by membership on the Board of Education," the letter stated. "We believe that in carrying out the true object, purpose and policy of a democratic form of education that the minority race or group, as citizens, taxpayers and parents, should have some voice in the administration of educational policies," the letter said.

The letter pointed out that under our dual system of education which provides for separate schools, the organizations feel that many things in connection with the future educational programme of Louisville, of vital concern and interest to Negro parents, will best be served by such membership.

Dr. Lattimore was described as a man who for thirty years has been "actively interested in every phase of Negro development" and who has figured prominently in successful national and local projects involving the welfare of the Negro.

Negro Progress In Medicine

Negroes are making encouraging progress in medicine, according to reports made at the convention, being held this week in Chicago, of the National Medical Association, composed of Negro doctors. Dr. G. Hamilton-Francis, of Norfolk, president of the association, says that a new era has dawned for Negroes in the practice of medicine and in hospitalization and care. Negro physicians, dentists and pharmacists are increasing in number; hospitals operated wholly by Negro doctors and nurses for Negro patients have been established.

It is gratifying to learn of this progress. While, in general, the field of medicine is said to be overcrowded, this is not true with respect to Negro doctors. There is a need for more Negro physicians. The field for them is large, and the opportunity is great for competent and well-trained Negro doctors, by ministering to the members of their race who all too often lack proper medical attention, to contribute handsomely to the advancement of public health in general.

List Recommendations

1. The establishment of facilities for research work and study in medicine, dentistry, and pharmacy wherever a fit center is found, and the encouragement of the same in our medical schools. I also suggest that in each community we organize reading clubs and discussion groups.
2. The interest of medical organizations in their several communities to use their influence to open hospitals to Negro graduates as internes and in other positions (especially is this appeal made to our members where the law does not close these opportunities to people of color).

For Interracial Amity

3. The cultivation of a friendly professional feeling with members of the other race, in the knowledge that the quickest solution of our problems lies in our effort to bring hitherto hostile forces to see our work so that they may have a clearer view of our progress and goal. Keeping them away is like meeting evil with evil; bringing them in is planting a rose instead of a thorn.
4. The selling of the National Medical Association to the younger men through the schools by establishing monthly talks in high schools and colleges under the auspices of the local medical unit — thereby training the medically inclined through high school, pre-medic work and medical school.

Stress Public Health

5. The propagation of the gospel of public health.
6. The organization of ethically-minded men under one roof, representing different branches of the profession, to afford consultation with specialists and improved service at reasonable cost and in order, thereby to meet the threat of "socialized medicine."
7. I cannot too strongly insist on the idea of the men in general practice making notes of their findings and preserving them as a permanent record, for the literature of the future, to a large extent, will be based on their wide experiences, and in many cases, should undoubtedly be written by them.
8. Last, and quite important, I again suggest the organization of a woman's auxiliary to the National Medical Association. In any genuine promotion of public health and preventive medicine, I see no greater force for good in the hamlets and cities of America than the organized and inspired womanhood of the race.

Dr. Francis is a graduate of the Meharry Medical College, has held many offices in the National Medical Association, and has been called in to both State and Federal conferences on health. He was born in the British West Indies, but has been in America most of his life, and has practiced in Norfolk since 1911.

N.J. MEDIC URGES SEPARATE HOSPITAL

Afro-American

ORANGE, N.J.—A plea for the establishment of a hospital for colored veterans in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, or Maryland has been voiced by Dr. William G. Alexander in a letter to the editor of the Journal of the National Medical Association.

"I unhesitatingly advocate the establishment of another veterans hospital for the colored group," stated Dr. Alexander in part, "but not to be located in the South. Without representing the National Medical Association, of which I am no longer an official, I would like to see such an institution either in Maryland, Pennsylvania, or New Jersey.

"I am sure," he continued, "there is no social condition of the group that could be aggravated or made worse by the establishment of such an institution in any of these places for segregation, in principle and in fact, is entrenched in all of these states almost as strongly as in any Southern state.

"In addition, there is certainly no reason why colored veterans should be sent to hospitals in areas where attitudes are hostile. While segregation prevails in the states mentioned, there is not that racial hostility that exists in the Southern states."

NEGRO DOCTOR SCORES AT NEW YORK STATE MEDICAL MEET

Courier 4-8-33 Pittsburgh Pa.

Dr. Louis T. Wright of New York City Conducts Commendable Skull Fracture Exhibit—Praised By Notables.

NEW YORK, April 6—A signal honor was conferred upon a member of the race here this week when Dr. Louis T. Wright, colored secretary of the Medical Board of Harlem Hospital and surgeon of the New York police department, with rank of lieutenant, conducted the exhibit on skull fractures at the 127th annual meeting of the Medical Society of the state of New York at the palatial Waldorf Astoria Hotel. Over 3,500 physicians from all parts of the state attended the sessions and Dr. Wright's exhibit was one of the centers of attention during three days of the meetings. The scientific program included sessions on medicine, surgery, neurology, psychiatry, pediatrics, dermatology public hygiene and sanitation, radiology, physical therapy, etc.

Dr. Louis T. Wright, first Negro to ever be appointed police surgeon in an American city, is a distinguished surgeon whose writings have appeared in the leading medical journals of the world. He was a leader in the fight to get Negro doctors on the staff of the Harlem Hospital and is an inveterate foe of the segregationists among Negro doctors who for selfish reasons want Harlem Hospital to be an all-Negro institution instead of having a mixed staff, white and black, as at present. He has recently been the center of the attacks launched by disgruntled Negro doctors against the administration of the hospital.

Perhaps no Negro surgeon in New York City has so gained the confidence of the colored patients by his phenomenal skill in operations as Dr. Wright. His selection to conduct a clinic before the leading doctors of New York State is considered a great honor to him as well as the Negro medical profession.

Chicago Physicians to Sail for Study Abroad

Dr. George C. Ellis will sail from New York Saturday, April 22, aboard the French liner Champlain for London, where he will pursue work in neurology and psychiatry at the National Hospital under Dr. Gordon Holmes and Dr. S. A. Kinnier Wilson, two foremost neuro-psychiatrists of England. After working in this institution he will go to the Eppendorfer Krankenhaus in Hamburg, Germany, to study neuropathology and clinical neurology with Drs. Nonne and Josephi.

As a Julius Rosenwald fellow in neurology, Dr. Ellis served two years as assistant in the department of neurology and neurosurgery at the Billings hospital, University of Chicago, and for the past year and a half has devoted his time to ward work in nervous and mental diseases at Cook County hospital and to neuropathology at Research hospital, University of Illinois, under the direction of Dr. George B. Hassin.

Dr. Ellis received his preliminary education in Altamont, Ill., where he graduated from high school, received his A. B degree from the University of Illinois and M. D. degree from Rush Medical college, University of Chicago. He served his internship at the Illinois Central hospital in Chicago.

During his high school and college years and subsequently, Dr. Ellis has been a student of the German language and he anticipates much from his study in Hamburg.

NEGRO DOCTOR MAKES CONTRIBUTION TO THE MEDICAL WORLD

Dr. L. Otis Miller of Asheville N. C., recently announced that he has developed a formula for the safe reduction of high blood pressure and will present an interesting paper at the next meeting of the John A. Andrew Clinical Society which meets at Tuskegee next April. He will soon place his formula for the safe reduction of high blood pressure on the market through Parke Davis Manufacturing Chemist of Detroit, Michigan. The doctor is loud in his praises for his new remedy and claims that there is nothing on the market like it and in due time literature will be circulated.

"High blood pressure has baffled the medical profession for ages and if Doctor Miller safely regulates blood pressure, some millions of patients will sing his praises and drive the wolf far away from the doctor's door.

Young Medic Blazes Trial At Cleveland Hospital

CLEVELAND, O., July 12 — Dr. Frederick Douglass Stubbs recently became the first member of the Race to complete an internship at Cleveland City Hospital. Until the intervention of Councilman LeRoy N. Bundy, Charles George and Lawrence O. Payne, Negroes were not admitted to internship at the hospital. Through their efforts principally, the hospital now not only accepts colored interns, but has a class of colored nurses.

Makes A Record

Dr. Stubbs, who completed his assignment as resident in Thoracic Surgery at the hospital, finished Dartmouth College in 1927, obtaining an A. B. degree and a coveted Phi Beta Kappa Key for high scholastic standing. He graduated from the Medical School of Harvard University with high standing, being elected to the Alpha Omega Alpha, honorary medical fraternity.

Dr. Stubbs was apopinted Assistant Resident Surgeon at Cleveland Hospital, working with the famed tuberculosis specialist, Dr. S. O. Friedlander. Records for June show he performed more than twenty major operations in chest surgery. The internationally-known Dr. George Wile commended his work.

The young surgeon will take up practice as assitant to Dr. John B. Turner, surgeon in the Department of Police of Philadelphia.

The New County Policy

All Oklahoma City and the citizens of the county generally will commend the board of county commissioners for elevating Dr. W. L. Haywood to the position of assistant county physician. Black Dispatch Mar 13 33

Dr. Haywood is eminently fitted for this work. He has been connected with hospital work for many years, and has an outstanding reputation as a surgeon. Dr. Haywood organized and operated the first Negro hospital in Oklahoma City and in addition to his many civic responsibilities which have endeared him to the populace, he has given more active time to hospital practice than any other Oklahoma City physician. Dr. Haywood is a graduate of the best medical school which Negroes have in this country. Oklahoma City, Okla.

But the fine thing for which the commissioners should be commended is their expressed desire to give the Negro physicians of the city and county a larger opportunity to hospitalize their colored patients in Great Western Hospital. The records show that out of the 18,000-odd Negro patients hospitalized last year, Great Western received only 52. It is this unequalized situation which Dr. Haywood's elevation to the assistant position will help to correct.

The Black Dispatch is pleased to note this fine liberal spirit extant within the board of county commissioners. Hats off to Comissioners Dobbs, Lowe and McCall. With a continuance of such policies it is not hard to determine where the Negro vote will be when these men come up for re-election the next time.

Dr. Haywood is one of the outstanding physicians and surgeons of the Southwest. As chief surgeon of Great Western Hospital, he has won an enviable reputation for himself. The new move of the county board means that Great Western Hospital is now to come into its own in the matter of caring for county patients.

ERLANGER AND NEGRO DOCTORS.

Desire of Negro physicians of this community for professional recognition at Erlanger is easily understandable. Moreover, open-minded citizens generally must sympathize with them in their efforts to obtain such recognition.

The Negro doctors are qualified under the laws of Tennessee to practice medicine and surgery; they and many other Negroes in this community are taxpayers, and as such help to support the charity work at Erlanger; they serve the medical and surgical needs of most of the members of their race, but when a Negro enters Erlanger, as many do, under charity and emergency provisions, treatment by a Negro physician is at an end.

This condition, needless to say, is not the result of any disposition on the part of Erlanger authorities to engage in race discrimination, but the result of certain very practical considerations within the hospital, which have not as yet been overcome. That such is the case is clearly indicated by the expressed attitude of members of the Erlanger Board.

There is every reason to believe that the Board will approach the proposal for the admission of Negro doctors to Erlanger professionally with an open mind. It may even be assumed that the proposal will receive sympathetic consideration, and that, if it is possible to do so, a plan will be worked out whereby Negro physicians will be represented on the hospital staff and admitted to the Negro charity wards as practitioners.

Choose Staunton, Va. As Place of 1934 Convention

By ALFRED C. FENTRESS, M. D.
Journalist, Old Dominion Medical Society

BUCKROE BEACH, Va. — Endorsement of a recommendation to have Negro internes appointed at state-supported institutions for the exclusive care of Negro patients, was one of the important steps taken at the annual meeting of the Old Dominion Medical Society meeting at Bay Shore Hotel here Wednesday and Thursday of last week.

It was also urged that the Old Dominion Medical Society sponsor a health program in accord with the program of the State Board of Health. Approximately 60 recognized delegates were present at the meeting which was held jointly with the meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Old Dominion Medical Society, and the Virginia State Colored Graduate Nurses' Association.

The meeting was officially opened with the annual address of the president, Dr. E. B. Harris, of Crewe, Va. "This is a new day in the medical and allied professions," Dr. Harris said. "Preventative medicine is the thought of today. The Negro medical profession should be aroused as never before to the prevalence and high mortality from syphillis, tuberculosis, and maternal and infantile mortality in obstetric practice."
